

Deed Indexes Luzerne County, Pennsylvania

The first entries in both Grantee and Grantor books are prior to the Dymond/Dimond family's arrival to the area. Coincidentally the first land granted was from Jonathan Dimon.

Luzerne County was at the earliest a very large area of northeastern Pennsylvania. It was subsequently carved into smaller counties. At its earliest it was part of the Connecticut Colonies territory even though separated from it by the New York colony.

Jonathan Dimon was an officer in the Revolution and a descendant of Moses Dimon of Fairfield, Connecticut Colony.

While the land is in Luzerne County it is to the north east of the area later settled by the Dymond/Dimond families. Jonathan's land was in the area of what became Susquehanna County. Jonathan had a son Albey. This family has no connection to ours at least biologically. The Fairfield Dimon family was involved in King Phillips War 1675. King Phillips War was the last attempt by the aboriginals to drive the colonists out of New England.

The first entries connected to our family begin 1819.
